New Hope Looms, Says Harding; World Recovering From Depression

PLYMOUTH, MASS., August 1.—A hope that the disarmament conference called by the United States may bring to the world a new era of peace and freedom was expressed by President Harding today in an address here at the tercentenary of the landing of the Pilgrims.

Characterizing the international situation as "more than promising," the president asserted that the seed of common tolerance and understanding planted by the fathers here was beginning to bear fruit a thousand fold in the relations between nations.

"A new hope looms today," said the president. "We are slowly, but very surely recovering from the wastes and sorrows and utter disarrangements of a cataclysmical war. Peace is bringing its new assurances; and patient realization and insistent conscience will preserve that peace. Our faith is firmer that war's causes may be minimized and overburdening armament may be largely diminished. And these, too, without surrender of the nationality which has inspired or the good conscience which has defended.

"The international prospect is more than promising and the distress and depression at home are symptomatic of early recovery. Solvent financially, sound economically, unrivaled in genius, unexcelled in industry, resolute in determination and unwavering in faith, these United States will carry on."

In the course of his speech, Mr. Harding praised particularly the part religious freedom and other New England traditions had played in development of the nation. He also took occasion to deplore the common tendency to concentrate governmental authority in Washington, and to reaffirm his faith in religion as an essential element of good government.

BODY OF SOCIETY GIRL FOUND IN HOTEL

NEW YORK, August 1.—The body of Sarah Cowen, former Baltimore society girl and daughter of the late John K. Cowen, one time president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, which was found in a hotel room here yesterday, remained unclaimed in the morgue today. Miss Cowen died, the medical examiner's office reported, of alcoholism and drug poisoning.

Police records show that the young woman, after being dismissed in 1915 from post graduate hospital, where she had been a probationary nurse, was committed to Blackwell's Island as a drug addict. Nothing further had been heard of her since her discharge from Blackwell's Island, as charged.

Reports from Baltimore said Miss Cowen had dropped out of the social life of that city several years ago. She had been known in Baltimore as one of the most beautiful debutantes of the season in which she made her debut, and in 1909 eloped with Charles T. Monson, Jr., of New Haven, Conn. She later divorced Monson.

The police were searching today for a man with whom Miss Cowen registered at the hotel, hoping he could shed more light on her recent life and the manner of her death.

The man disappeared after finding Miss Cowen dying.

FOUND DEAD

NEW YORK.—A woman identified as Sarah Cowen, a daughter of the late John K. Cowen, former president of the B. and O. railroad, was found dead in a room at a local hotel. Death is said to have been due to alcoholism.

Hoover Orders Russian Food Relief Parley

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 1.—Secretary Hoover cabled Walter Lyman Brown, European director of the American Relief Administration, London to proceed to Riga and negotiate with Russian soviet authorities preparatory to food relief work in Russia.

Mr. Hoover's instruction as head of the administration were sent on receipt of a cablegram from Maxim Gorky at London transmitting the soviet government's acceptance of his offer to fight famine among the children of Russia if the Americans detained in Russia were released.

"Would be glad if you would proceed at once to Riga," Mr. Hoover cabled Mr. Brown. "It is, of course, to be assumed that the prisoners will have been delivered out of Russia as demanded by the state department before you open discussions. You will recognize that such a course is the most primary evidence of willingness to assure life and liberty of our staff. You will please advise Messrs. Gorky and Kamenoff."

Mr. Hoover made public the communication from the soviet government transmitted by Maxim Gorky, the official text differing from that appearing in press dispatches only slightly, due to translation.

Urge Loan To Liberia

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 1.—Legislation authorizing payments to Liberia under the $5,000,000 loan to that country previously arranged for was asked by President Harding today in a letter transmitted to the senate. An accompanying letter from Secretary Hughes to the president said a "moral obligation" rested on the United States to make this loan.

Offer "Rain Maker" $3,000 An Inch for It

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 1.—"Make it rain in Wisconsin and we will pay $3,000 an inch for the use of your rainmaker." This telegram has been sent to Lethbridge, Alta., Canada, by Edward C. Pomeroy, president of the Wisconsin Society of Equity, representing 3,500 Badger state farmers.

The message was to F. F. Ratcliffe, secretary of the Medicine Hat (Alta.) Agricultural Association who induced C. M. Hatfield, the famous "rainmaker" of California, to go to the Medicine Hat district suffering recently from drought.

Hatfield set up a huge tank and filled it with his mysterious mixture of chemicals, supposed to ascend as a vapor and "open the clouds." He was paid $8000, having drawn 4.24 inches of rain within the specified time—at the rate of $2000 an inch.

Noted Gunman Killed In Court Yard Fight

WELCH, W. VA., Aug. 1.—Sid Hatfield, former chief of police of Matewan, W. Va., and Ed Chambers, a policeman of that place were killed in a gun fight in the McDowell county court house yard here shortly before noon today. T. C. Lively, a private detective, and four other persons were arrested in connection with the shooting.

Sid Hatfield was an outstanding figure in the industrial strife in Mingo county.

Hatfield was arrested last week in connection with the shooting up of the town of Mohawk, W. Va., about a year ago, and brought to Welch, where he was placed in jail. Chambers also was to appear in court today in connection with the same case.

Sid Hatfield as he appeared "ready for business" as police chief.

Hatfield was released on bail and was with Chambers this morning when they became involved in a quarrel with Lively and some of his friends. In the shooting which followed Hatfield and Chambers were killed.

Hatfield and Chambers were skulking down the street on their way to the court house just before noon when they caught up with a number of friends. The whole party was about to enter the building when they met Lively, who also was one of a party.

According to persons nearby, Lively and Hatfield exchanged greetings. Then something was said which brought on a quarrel. The men seemed greatly excited and were talking loudly when the shooting began. No one could be found who would say who fired the first shot, so quickly was it done. The next moment almost Hatfield and Chambers were stretched dead on the steps of the court house. Hatfield with a bullet in his chest, and Chambers with one through (Continued on Page Ten)

Shoe Shops In Price War

YOUNGSTOWN, O., August 1.—Explosion of dynamite in a shoe repair shop in the business district here early today are believed by police to be the outcome of a price war among shoe repairers. The front of the shop owned by Frank Spanic, was blown out, and practically all the machinery was destroyed by carefully placed dynamite. Pieces of machinery were blown through walls into stores on both sides of the shop. The loss is estimated at $1,600. Spanic had received a threatening letter.

Another Mayflower Arrives In Plymouth, President Aboard

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Aug. 1.—Another Mayflower came to Plymouth today, this one the presidential yacht, bringing President Harding and an official party to join in formal observance of the tercentenary landing of the Pilgrims.

The Mayflower's passengers of three hundred years ago landed on a wild coast marked only by Indian trails. Those of today made landing to an official welcome in scenes that offered striking contrast with those that faced the fathers. Through the streets of town streamed thousands of persons—100,000 was one estimate—governors, lesser officials, men of high social degree, and those of labor.

Many of them formed in a colorful parade in which were direct descendants of both the first settlers and of the friendly Indians with whom they lived in peace.

In this parade the president himself took part, both as participant and reviewer.

Harding to Deliver Address

The parade and other incidents served to set the scenes for the principal feature of the day's commemorative program, public exercises beginning at 4 p. m., at which President Harding was to deliver his only speech of the day and his only set address of the summer. For this he had set a great evanescent bank of stands seating 10,000, facing the open sea and its month rock. In the seascape, thus exposed, stood the battleships Pennsylvania, North Dakota and Delaware riding in the bay and the British cruiser Cambrian, at anchor inside Grand point, itself looming up like a battleship in the distance.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS IMMINENT IN IRISH PEACE NEGOTIATIONS

LONDON, August 1.—Developments in the peace negotiations between Prime Minister Lloyd George and leaders of the Irish Republicans are imminent, it was reported here today, but government leaders refused to lift the veil of secrecy. There were certain deductions made from the arrival in Dublin yesterday morning of Art O'Brien, president of the Gaelic League in London, but they could not be verified.

One rumor was to the effect that Mr. O'Brien was the courier who would take the Sinn Féin reply to Mr. Lloyd George, while another declared that Eamon De Valera would, himself, return to London during the coming week, and that Sir James Craig, the premier of Ulster, was also coming to this city. It also was reported that members of the Irish Republican parliament, which has been expected to meet during the coming week, have made preparations to receive a sudden call to Dublin, and the British Government was declared to be ready to release imprisoned members of the Republican parliament immediately after being apprised of the date upon which the parliament would meet.

It was admitted in Sinn Féin quarters that there was considerable difference of opinion among members of the Republican parliament respecting the concessions to be demanded from England. Some members were declared to be adhering resolutely to the demand for full national independence and for this reason predictions were made that the meeting of the parliament, when held, would probably develop some stiff opposition to the leaders, who were represented as being resolved to adopt a compromise measure.

It was maintained, however, that Mr. DeValera and his immediate colleagues retained control of the situation and would carry the principle of compromise against the demands of extremists.

PLAN TO ARREST LEN SMALL AT CAPITAL

CHICAGO, August 1.—State's Attorney Morlimer, who conducted the Sangamon county investigation of Governor Len Small's transactions while state treasurer, which resulted in his indictment for embezzlement of state funds, announced here today that the legal machinery of the capital is ready for the return of the governor and that an arrest at any other place would not be considered.

Word from Governor Small's home at Kankakee was that he is to spend today there looking after business matters. He plans to resume his inspection of state roads, Tuesday, probably going to Springfield on Wednesday or Thursday. His arrest is anticipated on his arrival at the capital.

PHILADELPHIA TO BE BOMBED OFF THE MAP

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., August 1.—Philadelphia was to be "bombed off the map" by a "hostile" fleet of airplanes today. Eighteen bombing planes and two pursuit planes were scheduled to arrive from Mineola, shortly before noon. Brigadier General William Mitchell, assistant chief of the army air service, has announced that he will participate in the attack.

The initial objectives of the bombers would be the railroad terminals, upon which the aircraft were to drop incendiary bombs which theoretically were to reduce the stations to masses of wreckage. Trains were to be subjected to flame machine gun fire and the Philadelphia navy yard was marked for "destruction." Shipping in the river was to receive attention after the forts had been reduced by the mythical bombs.

When the work of destruction is completed, the planes will fly to their headquarters at Langley field, passing over Washington on the way.

The bombing of Philadelphia completes the maneuvers of the army planes.

New York was destroyed last week following a fate similar to that of Washington, Norfolk, Newport News and Richmond.

QUINCY ELLIS DIES

TRONTON, Aug. 1.—A victim of heart failure, Quincy Ellis, well known and highly esteemed colored resident, died very suddenly at his home on Eighth and Adams streets Saturday evening about 10 o'clock. Mr. Adams was about 55 years of age and was an employee of the C. & O. at Russell. He is survived by a wife.

NORTHCLIFFE MAY HAVE SET STAGE TO UNSEAT 'NOTHER BRITISH CABINET

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Lord Northcliffe has come and gone and all Washington has settled back to discuss the most unusual read it has ever encountered, still wondering how narrow the Atlantic ocean can be at times when criticisms of a newspaper publisher in a foreign country can touch official life in another capital, and give it an uneasy twenty four hours.

If Lord Northcliffe had not been so free with his pen in writing about Prime Minister Lloyd George and Lord Curzon, British foreign secretary, official Washington would have made a great social event of his visit. As it was, officials who had planned openly to show their friendship for a distinguished foreign publisher took their cue from the action of the British embassy, which made a last minute cancellation of a dinner that was to be given in honor of His Lordship.

Northcliffe's Visits Informal

Lord Northcliffe did spend an hour and twenty minutes at the White House with President Harding, and afterwards called on Secretary Hughes at the State Department, but the visits were at the executive offices and at the state department building. Both were informal visits, such as might occur if any prominent American publisher paid his respects. There was every evidence of cordiality. Socially, however, the government took no part in any entertainment, as might otherwise have been the case. Relations between governments are too often strained by mistakes of etiquette. It is still insisted in some quarters that one of the chief reasons why Viscount Edward Gray was not received by President Wilson during his special visit to the United States, was the fact that Viscount Gray mingled socially with political opponents of Mr. Wilson in the senate.

Liners Bring Hundreds Of Immigrants

NEW YORK, August 1.—Two trans-Atlantic liners, which spent the week-end off Sandy Hook in order to avoid deportation of immigrants on board in excess of national quotas fixed for July under the new immigration law, entered port today. They were the Magadi Heilas, from Greece, with 903 immigrants on board, and Calabaria from Italy, with four hundred immigrants.

Both steamers had a number of passengers aboard who were obliged to wait to be landed until the immigrants could be brought in under the August quota.

Two other steamers, the Cedric from Liverpool and Zealand from Antwerp, also arrived today with immigrants, having waited along on the last day's run in order to avoid arrival before August 1.

Cotton Crop Is On Decline

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 1.—Decline of the cotton crop during July resulted in a reduction of 230,000 bales in the forecast of production is used today by the department of agriculture, a total of 8,203,000 bales being estimated as compared with 8,433,000 bales a month ago. The condition of the crop declined 4.5 points.

Enjoyed A Gospel Feast

Throughout the entire day much interest was manifested at the tent meetings at Third and Court streets. Evangelist Moore preached at 11:00 a. m. from the text: "The First and Great Commandment."

At 3 p. m. Evangelist Cochert preached from Romans 12:1. Mr. Cochert said in substance: "Paul saw the Roman brethren needed a further work of grace and besought them in this text to meet those conditions preparatory to that work. All Christians after conversion, need the same further work of grace that Paul here enjoins on the Roman believers. One day after I was converted I read in Acts that we were to receive power when the Holy Ghost came upon us. A great need appeared in my heart. I grew hungry for the baptism with the Holy Ghost and sought for Him until He came and filled me, taking out all the remains of my carnal nature. Most all who seek the baptism with the Holy Ghost are not in a good justified relation before God and find when praying for the Holy Ghost they must first obtain forgiveness for their sins, and come back into a saving relationship with Jesus Christ. Only a real experience of justification entitles a believer to seek and obtain the baptism with the Holy Ghost. The baptism with the Holy Ghost is needed to meet the tremendous opposition to which a Christian is subjected. Also to empower him to be a proper witness of Jesus Christ. And more especially to produce proper love and obedience toward God. The modern church is powerless because she has rejected the baptism with the Holy Ghost. A complete sacrifice is necessary to obtain the Holy Ghost and this the present day church is unwilling to do."

REV. JACKSON GREETED BY LARGE AUDIENCES

Rev. Oakley, the untiring pastor will begin his four weeks vacation after next Sunday. During his absence services will be held as usual. On Sunday, August 14, Rev. Ben Lear, foreign missionary, will occupy the pulpit both morning and evening.

Old Order Changeth.
Going "upstairs to bed" may become a thing of the past with some people. If the experience of one British officer is generally limited. Air Commodore W. N. Milford, flying over Cardington, a stillness of night, suddenly remembered that there would be a meeting which he was to attend the next morning—no, waving goodbye to his companion, he casually dropped, with a parachute, to the vicinity of the royal aviation hangar. "Can I get a bed here?" he asked of the astonished night watchman, adding, apologetically, "The only way to get here in time was to jump right off." Shall he, then, be "jump off to bed," or "drop down to bed," in the not distant future?

Milton's Mulberry Tree.
A cutting from a mulberry tree planted by John Milton at Oxford has been planted in the grounds of Milton's cottage at Chalfont. It is a pretty sentiment which inspired such an act; a tribute to the great poet which he would have been the first to appreciate. Having fled from London to this quiet Bucks village, he there put into the hands of frigid Ellwood the completed "Paradise Lost." He had him take it home, "read it at my leisure," says Ellwood, "and when I had no time to return it to him with my judgment thereon." Leisure is the spirit of this quiet cottage, with its wealth of climbing roses; the mulberry tree from Oxford will be an added charm in the coming years in this place of literary pilgrimage.—Christian Science Monitor.

Big Crowds At Tent Meeting

A great crowd of people greeted Evangelist Neighbour last night to hear him bring his message on "Hell, the Eternal Dwelling Place of the Damned."
The subject was handled in a masterly way and the Evangelist clinched and drove home the points of his sermon again and again, in a most convincing manner. The great crowd listened spellbound as this scriptural doctrine was set forth in its true light.
The unsupervised teaching of Pastor Russell was hit home upon blow and the unwholesome teaching of this "demon cult" was convincingly exposed.
It is a real pleasure to sit under the ministry of this faithful servant of God and receive real soul food, and instruction from the precious truths of God's word.
Great conviction is resting upon the people, under this man's ministry and souls are being led to the Lord Jesus Christ.

The British battleship Resolution and the American dreadnaught Utah served to give the regatta an official dignity.

Today's opening event was the Royal London Yacht Club race, but rivaling this number on the week's program were the second, third and fourth races between British and American six meter boats, which began their series of races at Ryde on July 29. The Americans lost the first round.

Many Witnesses To Testify In Distel Trial

The hearing of Chief of Police Joseph Distel, who is charged with possessing whiskey illegally, will be staged before Squire McLane in the mayor's office at New Boston at 1 p. m. Tuesday. The fact that 27 witnesses have been subpoenaed, shows that the trial will be hard fought. Distel will be defended by Attorney B. F. Kimble.

Constable Wolfe, of New Boston, was kept busy Sunday serving the subpoenas to the following witnesses: Officers Schroeder, Bonzo, Brauhm and Startzman, Callahan Smith, Judge Sarah Russell, James Dooley, Bryan W. R. Sprague, Charles Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Varnell, Jack Clark, J. G. Creechbaum, B. G. Dowdy, A. B. J. Dinsmore, H. Snyder, Arch Kimble, Diener and Sergeant Frank Emmett.

PIKETON FAIR OPENS WEDNESDAY

The Piketon Fair will open Wednesday August 3 and will continue through Friday August 5. A splendid racing program has been arranged and no doubt new attendance records will be established. There will be three big races each day and the admission is only 25 cents. Many motor parties from this city will take in the fair, which is always conducted along clean lines.

And They Call The City "Sleeptown"

On the night of August 12 at the National League Ball Park, Philadelphia, the home of the Phillies, the two best lightweight boxers in the world are to come together in an eight-round bout. When the sporting fans throughout the country got wise to the fact that at last Benny Leonard, the lightweight champion, had actually been hooked up with his closest rival, Lew Tindler, the man who has been after a match with Leonard for over two years. It seemed almost incredible. Leonard and Tindler matched and in Philadelphia, was the exclamation heard on every hand, and naturally there was a general inquiry as to who did it, and how it was done. Here is a boxing match considered by sporting experts as the best fight in sight in a generation, next to the Dempsey-Carpentier muss and the New York, Jersey City, Boston, Milwaukee and other promoters let it get away from them and permitted to go to the Quaker City. Well there is nothing mysterious about the matter. Philadelphia gets this great fight argument solely through the hustling abilities of one of the youngest and most ambitious promoters in the game to-day, Herman Taylor.

To Combine Clean Up With Good Time

Members of the Oldtown M. E. church, on the West Side, are reverting to the oldtime manner of getting their place of worship repaired. In place of a corn husking, painting party, threshing, or sewing bee, they are planning to gather at the church, bright and early Thursday morning, August 4, and combine a general cleaning up, with a good time. All the members of the little church are going to bring well-filled baskets for a picnic dinner, clean rags, and a bar of soap. With the latter articles they will clean the church from one end to the other. The invitation to join in the cleaning party includes men and women, young and old, alike.

Grosscup Is Convicted

DETROIT, Aug. 1.—That betting odds published by him represented his personal opinion as to the merits of the various horses named and that he was privileged under the constitution to set forth his opinion, was the contention of Louis Grosscup, manager of the Wolverine News Co., in an appeal for reversal of a jury's verdict before Judge Wilkins in municipal court today. Grosscup was convicted of violation of the law forbidding sale of betting odds. He had invited the conviction in order to produce a test case for the higher courts, where the case will be taken should the appeal be denied.

Held Meeting At Dressler Camp

Last evening the Local Christian Endeavor Society from the First Christian church held their regular meeting at Dressler Camp, South Portsmouth. A goodly number of the members were present and enjoyed the topic, which related to missionary work among the Indians.

The surroundings of the primitive forest, the ancient hills, and but for the fact that hundreds of houses and barns and other building could be seen not so far away, one would almost have seen Indians lurking in the shadows.

It was a good topic and a good place for it and under the leadership of Miss Della Packett, chairman of the Missionary committee, the topic and the evening as a whole was thoroughly enjoyed.

The Art of Life.

The art of life is to keep step with the celestial orchestra that beats the measure of our career, and gives the cue for our exits and our entrances. Why should we willingly miss anything, or precipitate anything, or be angry with folly, or in despair at any misadventure? In this world there should be none but gentle tears, and fluttering lip-toe loves. It is a great carnival, and amongst these lights and shadows of comedy, these roses and vices of the playhouse, there is no abiding.—G. Santayana in the Dial.

Starting tonight for an indefinite showing, The Eastland Theatre will offer Associated Producers' newest production "I AM GUILTY."

Teeming with action and suspense, "I Am Guilty!" J. Parker Read's latest release through the Associated Producers, presents an original theme in an interesting and unusual manner.

The story has to do with one Connie MacNair (Miss Glaum) a neglected wife, who is implicated in a murder mystery from which she has great difficulty in extricating herself.

Left alone by a thoughtless husband, Mrs. MacNair accepts the insistent invitation of a friend of her husband's to attend a frolic given by Teddy Garrick, a notorious, pleasure-seeker.

Following the party, the host meets death in a mysterious manner and as a result, Connie MacNair is drawn in the web which is built around the tragic death of Garrick. A burn on the shoulder, caused by a struggle with Garrick, when he attempts to assault the unsuspecting Connie, caused the guilt to be placed on the shoulders of the neglected wife. This situation proves to be one of the strongest scenes ever visualized for the screen and the denouement of the heroine is followed by an unbroken chain of action. It is not until the last reel that the mystery is solved, and the mystery thus maintained makes "I Am Guilty!" one of the really big pictures of the year.

Miss Glaum's supporting cast includes Joseph Kilgour, Mahlon Hamilton, Little Mickey Moore, Ruth Stouffer and other notable artists.

Youngstown Steel Plants On Increase

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 1—Steel plants of the Youngstown district today began a week of decidedly increased operation, with open hearth steel production at about 50 per cent of capacity, considerably better than for many weeks. A blast furnace, idle since May 21, was put in operation by the Sharon Steel Hoop Company, making seven furnaces out of 47 in the Mahoning valley, Ohio, and the Shenango valley, Pennsylvania. Rolling mill and sheet mill operations were increased at all the large plants. The Carnegie Steel Company's schedule for the week is for 55 per cent operation at its Ohio works here, and increases were made in the schedules of the Republic Iron and Steel Company and Brier Hill Steel Company.

Their Real Reason.
"But I thought men were supposed to adore women for having just what they haven't got, just as we adore them for their physical strength and their brains." "So they say, and so we say, because otherwise there would be no marriages," said Mrs. Vachell. "But it is a lie. We only love their strength for the sake of getting the better of it. They cultivate our foolishness because it gives them rest from competition, and they can sit down and plume themselves."—From "Three Loving Ladies," by Mrs. Dowdell.

Gang Must Here After Sit Around And Knit Socks; Faulkner Reviews Local Conditions

James W. Faulkner, noted political writer in Sunday's Enquirer, in his interesting and graphic way, told of the attempts being made to remove criminals in various parts of Ohio on charges of non-engagement of the dry laws. In commenting on Chief Dist. Judge's case here Mr. Faulkner of local interest Sunday said:

"There is a similar story from Portsmouth, Ohio, which, like a gem, is set upon the banks of the Ohio river amid green foliage and factory smoke. It looks as though Hon. "Bill" Gableman, the mayor, has a chance to be re-elected. He's the fellow who gave to the town the blue laws demanded by the friends of the Mayor of the University until all hands, saint and sinner alike, cried "murder" and "watch" and asked him, for the love of Mike, to be reasonable. The opposition understood, hasn't anything on "Bill" personally, but desiring his job for one of the elect, it has started something. A couple of the keen-nosed bloodhounds of the State Prohibition Commissioner, Don V. Parker, appeared in Portsmouth and soon thereafter they pinched the Chief of Police, Joseph Distel, for "unlawfully having possessed alcoholic liquor to-wit, whiskey, in the quantity of a pint."

This cursed stuff, it appears, was found at police headquarters. Labeled as evidence and tightly corked. The criminal who owned it originally had been convicted and sent to jail on another charge. Technically the Chief was not in lawful possession of the brain-eating poison. Now that he has been pinched it is being told to the law-and-order loving citizens of Portsmouth that their Mayor is a whited squelcher and is hand-in-hand with a gang of demons who wish to turn the city over to the sons of Belial to be made into a hell-hole. If he isn't conspiring to this unworthy end, what was the pint of whiskey doing at police headquarters? It must be clear to one and all that the hour demands the cleansing of Portsmouth, and this can be accomplished most expeditiously by defeating Gableman and electing whosoever is chosen as the Republican candidate August 9.

From these samples, which can be duplicated over and over, one can further the facts concerning the operation of pussy-cat politics. The hairy-hearted stuff is played out. Hereafter the gang must sit around in circles, knit socks and whisper that so-and-so is no better than he ought to be, because he stayed out until after 10 o'clock and was seen alone on the streets without a veil. Me-ow! P-s-s-s-t!"

SWIMMING KEEPS HER YOUNG, SAYS 57-YEAR-OLD CHAMP OF BALBOA

Although in years she is 57, in spirits she is 18. At least so says Mrs. Jennie Harrison, who is shown in this picture ready for a dive into the water. She has just won a ten mile swimming race from the women of the Panama Canal Zone, at Balboa. She also holds a record for endurance swimming, having been in the water for five hours and thirty seven minutes at one stretch. Besides holding these records, Mrs. Harrison has chalked up a 25 foot dive to her credit.

Nine-Year-Old Journeys Alone From Austria

Lydia Matucek

BRIDGEPORT, O., August 1—Lydia Matucek, nine years, has made the journey unattended from Wilkovic, Austria, to Boydsville, a suburb of Bridgeport. The child was two years old when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Matucek, left Bohemia to come to America. She was left in the care of her grandparents, being too ill to make the trip. The war later prevented it and this summer it was planned to have her uncle, Frank Remus, who is in the American army on the Rhine, bring her home. This was found to be impossible, and the Red Cross was appealed to. That organization arranged for her transportation on the transport Somme and she made the trip without incident, sailing from Antwerp, Belgium. Arriving in New York, she was met by Red Cross representatives and placed on a train for Wheeling, where her parents met her.

To Quizz Woman On Deaths

CHICAGO, August 1.—Mrs. John Demmer was to be quizzed today by Lloyd Ilett, state's attorney, in connection with the deaths of Fred Kolze and of his wife, whose bodies showed trace of poison, according to Peter M. Hoffman, coroner. Kolze died several weeks ago, while Mrs. Kolze has been dead eight years. A third body, that of John Demmer, husband of Mrs. Demmer, is to be exhumed as soon as Coroner Hoffman can obtain the legal right to remove it from Kolzy, Wis. Poisoning is suspected by the coroner in this case also, it was stated.

Following the death of Mrs. Kolze Mrs. Demmer acted as housekeeper for Fred Kolze.

Five Injured In Auto Mishap

SPRINGFIELD, O., August 1.—Hospital attendants reported this morning that Miss Hazel Femmore, who was injured in an automobile accident near New Carlisle last night, is in a serious condition. She is injured about the neck. Judge Golden Davis of police court, is suffering merely from severe body bruises. The four other occupants of the car, which was overturned down an embankment, are Miss Lillian Dills, Miss Lela Cunningham, William Oats, of Springfield, and O. A. Mantin, of Chicago. They are only slightly injured.

The Reason.

Little Joe was at grandmother's house for dinner. Although free chicken and many other mighty good things were on the table, Joe did not care to eat much. Then grandmother began to coax him. One thing after another she brought to his notice. Finally she said: "Here's my home made sugar cookies. Aren't you going to try some of them, dear?" Little Joe attempted a smile. "That's what is the matter," he explained. "I tried too many of them before dinner, grandma."—Indianapolis News.

PETEY

HE'S REDUCED TO A WHISPER

BY C. A. VOIGHT

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Miss Wise—I am fifty years old and have been married twenty-five years. Before I married, my dear mother warned me that I would not be happy with the man of my choice because we quarreled all the time before marriage. I have always been a person with strong opinions and will, and I would want to go ahead with my way of doing things whether he wanted to or not. He has always been a man of strong opinions and will, too, and so you can see why we quarreled. A friend of mine said that when two people marry the one with the strongest will weakens the will of the other person so that person doesn't really count. It was never that way in our family, because we each went our own way and neither would give in to the other. All of these years I have realized that my husband wanted my love, but I couldn't give it to him and at times I have thought I hated him. We have three children and so I never thought of separation. A year ago my husband was called out of town on business. He had to open a district office in another town and instead of taking us with him, he only came home to see us once a month for a week-end. Absence has made me realize that I love him and I want him to move to the town where he has to work. He says he doesn't want to because he is enjoying peace of mind and freedom which he has not known in years. I am sure there is no other woman in the case because I have a cousin in the other town and I have asked her about him. She says that he is busy at the office almost every evening and he often drops in to see her. She knows there is no one else. Don't you think my husband ought to let us move to the place where he has to work?

ALMOST DESERTED.

Yes, I think your husband ought to permit his family to live in the place where he has to work. He will grow away from you if he doesn't and later in life he will realize that he has made a mistake by not clinging more closely to his children at least. The best way for you to make your husband do as you want him to is to do as he wants you to in every way you can. Since you have only one week-end a month to be with him you should make that week-end absolutely happy for him and for that time at least forget your strong opinions and will and look at things through his eyes. Ask his opinion and make him think that you respect his judgment more than you do your own. Be gentleness and sympathy you can do much to win back your husband. He would care a lot more for a loving, thoughtful wife than some one too self-willed to care to be thoughtful and loving.

Dear Miss Wise—Please give me a recipe for sour cream cookies. G. L. M.

Three-fourths cup of sugar, one-fourth cup butter, one egg, one-half cup sour cream, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon soda, vanilla. Cream butter and sugar, add beat-on egg and sour cream. Mix dry ingredients, using one and one-half cups of flour. Add more flour to make soft dough. Roll very thin, cut, sprinkle with sugar and bake in quick oven.

Dear Dolly—Will you please publish again the short poem you had in the Sunday Times of July 10th. I have lost my copy. THANKFULLY.

All to myself, I think of you. Think of the things we used to do. Think of the things we used to say. Think of the happy yesterday. Sometimes I sigh, sometimes I smile. But I keep each golden, golden while. All to myself.

Miss B. L.—You should certainly return the ring—he may want to use it again. Besides, you should think of the value of it, and not want to keep it since the engagement is broken.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

JEALOUSY RULES

What Arline had failed to see, in her great joy at having Ned seem to really want her again, was that Arthur Hamlen and Cherry had both come back to the veranda to dance, and were standing, hesitating for an instant, as though trying to decide whether to dance with each other or not.

Ned had seen them immediately, however, and again the angry blood had pounded in his head, as he thought of the falseness of that pretty little wife of his, standing so innocently before him in her fluffy white dress and soft smile. Well, she would see just how gay a time he could have with other women, it would do her good. Take some of the conceit out of her, maybe.

And with this thought in his mind, he drew Arline, all delighted to him, even as Cherry stood gazing, fondly thinking that surely by now her Neddy would be waiting a dance from her.

And with abandon he danced with his starry-eyed partner, this infuriated husband. He looked down into her eyes as often as possible, and enjoyed to the full the response that flashed from Arline's face and eyes to his own. It soothed his nerves, flattered his flaunted vanity and caused him to really wonder if, after all, these soft non-independent girls, like Arline, were not the best for a man like himself?

Arline seemed infinitely lovely and womanly in every way, to Ned as he danced with her. And every now and then he felt her whole being lean towards him supplicatingly.

Here was a girl who would give up a whole world for the asking. This Ned well knew. She had loved him for three years now unswervingly. That in itself, was a recommendation after what he had seen tonight. And at one time she had almost offered herself to him in a rash moment at the end of a bitter quarrel, when she had been overwhelmed with joy at their reunion. Yes, she was that kind of a generous soul, this Arline. He had been a fool not to have responded to her fire and saved himself his present heartache. Girls like Cherry, girls that let all men kiss them for the asking. What did Arthur Hamlen think of him now?

Again, at these wild thoughts, he suddenly strained the girl in his arms to him slightly, but not so slightly that Arline, all alertness now, did not get it. She smiled up at him through humbly love-lit eyes.

"Come," he commanded, almost roughly, "we'll sit out the next two dances. Come!"

HEAVY DEATH TOLL FROM ELECTRICAL WIND STORMS

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—At least seven persons were killed and many seriously injured in severe electrical and wind storms that swept various sections of the country yesterday and Saturday night. Four of the deaths were attributed to lightning.

Loss to buildings struck by lightning and damage to crops, particularly in New England, was said to amount to thousands of dollars.

In West Northfield, Mass., Harry Field, Jr., 12, was killed when lightning struck a tree under which he had taken refuge.

G. A. Gottschalk, of New York, met death at Rhinebeck, N. Y., when lightning struck a tree under which he was standing.

As she was leaving the golf links near Lewistown, Mont., Mrs. Harry E. Lay was killed by lightning.

Walter Whitworth, of Worcester, Mass., was killed by lightning while seated under a tree at Marlboro, Mass. Andrew Little, 30, was killed when a tree fell on his automobile during a storm at Benton, Ill., and Mrs. William Belford and her 11 year old grandson were crushed to death near Graceland, Ill., by the fall of a well of their home during a wind storm.

At Travers Island, N. Y., thirty members of the New York Athletic Club had narrow escapes from serious injury, all of them being knocked to the ground by a hail of lightning.

Hail accompanied the rain in several eastern states. One hail stone picked up after a storm in Passaic county, N. J., was reported to have weighed 11 ounces.

WHEN A FELLOW NEEDS A FRIEND—BY BRIGGS

Northcliffe May Have

Notwithstanding the obvious delicacies of the situation, Lord Northcliffe had a very good time, and of official Washington relished his visit, especially because of the unusual atmosphere it created. The newspaper men of Washington, feeling no such restraints as affect the government in such a situation, gave His Lordship perhaps the most distinctive entertainment than any foreigner received in the capital. This may have been inspired by a professional admiration for a man who ousted one industry and transformed the entire conduct of the war by Great Britain, or it may have been the result of splendid impression which Lord Northcliffe had made among those who know that he never permits words of unfriendly criticism of the United States to be printed in any of the scores of newspapers which he owns and controls. Anyway, it seemed fitting that this visitor, whose secretary as a friend of the United States has never been doubted, should be given some token of the widespread appreciation in which he is held here. It so happened that the only ones in Washington who were able to manifest openly their regard for Northcliffe were the newspaper men.

Wants British Who Understand Americans

Although Washington is not familiar with the niceties of English politics, the impression given by the Northcliffe party is that the recent outburst of hospitality on the part of the British government grew out of a suggestion in one of the Northcliffe papers that the British delegation to the forthcoming disarmament conference at Washington should be composed of men who understood the American people. The Northcliffe editorials plainly disapproved of the idea that Lord Curzon, British foreign secretary, should be a member of the delegation, contending that he was of a British type not suited for such an important mission. Similarly, the Northcliffe press has argued against the proposed departure of Prime Minister Lloyd George from England, and has used practically the same argument against his coming to America as was employed in the effort to dissuade President Wilson from going to Europe at the time of the peace conference.

Important Events May Be Heard

The Northcliffe idea seems to be that home affairs are in much too critical a condition to be handled by a leaderless cabinet. Lord Northcliffe himself thinks Viscount Bryce, former British ambassador to the United States and distinguished author of books on American life, and Lord Robert Cecil, who worked in such close harmony with the American delegation at Paris, would be better suited to present the viewpoint of the British people. The visit of Lord Northcliffe to Washington, coupled

U. B. CHURCH IS RE-DEDICATED

The re-dedication of the little church at Bear Creek by the United Brethren congregation, was the occasion of much joy among its worshippers Sunday.

The dedication was an all day event, and the large crowd that attended, began coming early, accompanied by huge baskets filled to overflowing with picnic dishes.

Rev. Dr. H. A. Hitt, assistant superintendent of the United Brethren conference, had charge of the dedication. He came from Westerville to attend the service. A large number of Portsmouth people, members of the local United Brethren church were in attendance and rendered valuable services. The Bear Creek church was recently remodeled and is now one of the most picturesque churches in the community. The financial standing of the church was made considerably greater when $40 were subscribed, putting it out of debt, and allowing a substantial over-balance. Rev. Hitt preached two sermons, one in the morning and the second after the assembly had partaken of a delicious picnic dinner. The music for the dedication was especially beautiful. Mrs. Phillip Knost and Mrs. George White, of Portsmouth were the vocal soloists, and Miss Frances McGowan, Wheelersburg acted as the pianist. Rev. Silas Smith, Portsmouth, is the pastor of the church.

BAN JOHNSON HAS HAD REVENGE ON COMISKEY, CLAIMS DEFENSE ATTORNEY

with his severe criticisms of British policy, may be the forerunners of important events in British politics later on, when the disarmament conference is in progress. Lord Northcliffe himself is going to the Far East and will be there while the diplomats are assembled in Washington. He has openly expressed himself against the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, but, nevertheless is a good friend of the Japanese people. It would not be surprising if Lord Northcliffe played a prominent part through his newspapers in shaping British policy at the disarmament conference. Some observers think that with true Northcliffe skill the distinguished publisher has set the stage for a supreme effort to oust another British minister.

Another Mayflower

day at the port where the Mayflower Bark sailed three centuries ago. It was 301 years to a day from the time when the Pilgrims set out from the Dutch port of Delftshaven. This and other scenes to be produced again in pagant form tonight with President Harding as guest. The old Mayflower herself, reproduced for the pagant, lay along the shore within view of the presidential party on its way from ship to shore. For this trip the presidential yacht being forced to anchor in the outer harbor because of the turbulent channel that leads within.

At the new dock, Governor Cox, of Massachusetts, headed a welcoming committee, which included Senator Lodge and executives of several New England states.

School Children Welcome Harding

There awaited the president at the dock also a group of New Bedford school children, winners of the Evening Standard's annual competition for mastery of English by children of foreign parents, to whose honors were added those of receiving their medals from the president's hand. President Harding, the president's program took him to the point at which the parade was formed, two miles outside the town, under guard of a troop of cavalry. His was the first five divisions. Regular state military companies were assigned as escort for the guests, who included Vice President Coolidge, the governor, several United States senators, William H. DeBourfort, charge d'affaires of the Dutch embassy, and Captain Sydney H. Bailey naval attaché of the British embassy.

Many Floats in Parade

The fourth division, one of floats from each of the towns and many of the villages of Plymouth and Barnstable counties—the old colony District—brought the parade to a brilliant climax. Plymouth floats reproduced the landing of the Pilgrims. That of Duxbury portrayed the treaty between the first settlers and the Indians.

The Mayflower Dropped Anchor Just Outside the Entrance to the Harbor

At 2:28 a. m. Formal welcome to President Harding until he set foot ashore. The president's yacht had slipped through the Cape Cod canal, thus avoiding the breakers off the cape, which three hundred years ago turned back its predecessor the Mayflower. The banks of the canal and the bridges spanning it were lined with people who cheered the presidential yacht as it passed.

Mayflower Escorted by Warships

After passing through the canal with the destroyer escort, the Mayflower was met by the battleship Florida and cut across Cape Cod bay, rounding Manomet point, the stern and rock-bound coast, of which Follen Island wrote, then turned in past the twin lights at Guerret, to its anchorage just beyond.

Ashore, meantime, the Pilgrim town was fairly jammed with people.

So great was the crush that some of the distinguished guests unidentified by the required insignia, were hustled here and there. Senator Lodge was taken in hand by a provost guard, he insisting on his identity without success and his automobile was directed to a thoroughfare distant from the pier where he was to meet the president. Naval officers who learned of the incident hurried about to overtake him.

The day was one of brilliant sunshine. Its heat relieved by a breeze from the north.

TURKS A WAIT THIRTY THOUSAND REINFORCEMENTS

CONSTANTINOPLE, August 1.—The Turkish Nationalists, according to advances from Antolia, are holding positions east of Sivrihisar, about fifty miles east of Eski-Shehr, while awaiting thirty thousand reinforcements, said to be expected from Cilicia Mesopotamia, and the Caucasus, whose arrival is desired before a decisive action with the Greeks is risked. The Nationalists announce a determination to fight to the bitter end, and their leaders express belief that the Greeks are at a disadvantage because of their lengthened supply lines and the scattering of their forces over a wide area in a hostile territory with the railroads rendered useless. It is pointed out, however, that the Turks abandoned large quantities of supplies in their retreat, giving the Greeks sufficient provisions to last them a considerable period.

Business Hard Hit In South America

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Except for improvement in Argentina, South American conditions were pictured as depressed during July, in the reports of economic conditions from its trade representatives made public today by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. Foreign competition to American commercial activity was reported strong, particularly from the Germans and Belgians. Prices ranging from 20 per cent to 5 per cent less than those on American commodities were being quoted, it was said, and numbers of American concerns closing their South American offices. The commercial situation in Argentina showed improvement in that imports were decreasing and exports increasing. Commercial Attaché Peely at Buenos Aires declared. Reports from the United States were still showing a marked decline and because of the exchange rate there was little prospect of placing orders for American goods except some necessities.

FATE OF ALLEGED CROOKED WHITE SOX PLAYERS WILL SOON BE UP TO THE JURY

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Attorneys for the defense in the baseball trial today opened ten hours of argument in an effort to convince the jury that there was no conspiracy between former White Sox players and alleged gamblers to throw the 1919 world series to Cincinnati.
Henry Berger, representing Carl Zerk, of St. Louis, opened for the defense, which probably will complete its case late today or tomorrow morning, after which the state will close in about two hours, the case going to the jury late Tuesday or early Wednesday.
Judge Hug Friend has announced that he will not sustain a verdict of guilty against Zerk and Mr. Berger's testimony dealt for the most part with technicalities of the conspiracy laws.
Michael Ahern assisted Mr. Berger who will be followed by Thomas

Nash, representing Felsch, Weaver and Risberg; James C. O'Brien, representing Gaudil and Ben Short, representing Cicotte, Williams and Jackson, will be among defense attorneys to be heard.
Of the eleven defendants originally on trial, Ben and Louis Levi, alleged gamblers, have been discharged and Judge Friend announced that he would direct verdicts of not guilty for Felsch and Weaver unless more evidence was found.
Attorneys for both the state and defense today issued statements predicting a speedy verdict in their favor.

LABOR STATISTICS FOR COUNTY GIVEN OUT

Interesting labor statistics for Scioto county have just been announced by Labor Statistics Dept. of Industrial Relations for 1921.
The population of Scioto county passed 50,000 in the late U. S. census and the wage and hour reports annually submitted by its employers to the Ohio Department of Industrial Relations are here for the first time made the subject of a separate report by its Division of Labor Statistics.
One hundred and sixty-five establishments filed returns for the year 1920. The total wage and salary payments of all these were $16,019,175, of which $14,535,477 was credited to the various manufacturing lines. Among these, iron and steel goods and tools and shoes have easy predominance. The former is almost two and a half times as large as the latter in point of payroll expenditures. It paid $8,200,000 as compared with $3,400,000 in the boot and shoe industry. Its principal branch is rolling mills and steel works. Four thousand, three hundred and six employees in these iron and steel trades are accounted for in the classified wage columns of the schedules submitted. Earnings of adult male wage-earners ran into high percentages, 82 percent earned more than $30 per week; 62 percent more than $35; 43 percent more than $40; and 27 percent more than $50. The state figures for 1919 in this group of trades showed only 54 percent, 37 percent, 23 percent and 8 percent with these respective earnings.
A comparative statement for wage-earners of each sex in the boot and shoe industry in Scioto and Franklin counties in 1920 is here appended:

ADULT WAGE EARNERS—BOOTS AND SHOES

Employed at	MALES		FEMALES
	(1152) (employees)	(1920) (employees)	(881) (employees)	(1246) (employees)
Less than $10—per cent	0.6	0.5	3.2	9.5
$10—12	0.6	2.8	6.2	18.2
$12—15	4.3	2.6	18.3	29.6
$15—18	4.3	12.7	27.4	19.6
$18—21	7.7	15.4	22.3	10.4
$21—25	14.5	15.4	14.6	8.4
$25—30	17.5	11.5	6.5	4.3
$30—35	21.4	12.3	1.2	2.1
$35—40	21.4	10.5	0.3	0.6
Over $40	7.4	18.7	None	0.4

It will be seen by the above that more than one-half of the women in Scioto county earned less than $15 per week last year and almost three-fourths of them less than $15.

Women employed in other occupations had comparatively low earning capacity. Of those engaged as bookkeepers, stenographers and office clerks, approximately 40 percent made less than $15 and 65 percent less than $18 weekly. Among saleswomen, these proportions increased to 75 percent and 95 percent respectively.

Adult males engaged in these positions are listed principally at much higher wages. 84 percent of the bookkeepers, stenographers and office clerks and 77 percent of the salesmen are paid $25 or more per week.
Fire Clay
Scioto County produced 140,574 tons of fire clay in 1920 and ranked fifth among Ohio counties having mines of this character. Labor charges in this industry amounted to $100,587. It afforded an average of 254 days employment to 109 workmen. The product was applied to the manufacture of fire brick.
Sandstone
Approximately 250,000 cu. ft. of sandstone was quarried in the county last year. Details of this industry can not be given as there were but two reporting establishments.
Coal
Scioto county is of negligible importance as a coal producer. Only one thousand tons were mined in 1920.

Run On 5 Cent Bank Goes On

BOSTON, August 1.—Notwithstanding reassuring statements by bank officials and the state bank commissioner, the run on the Boston Five Cents Savings Bank, which began Friday, continued unabated today. Patrolmen and mounted police kept the crowd of anxious depositors in a line which extended about eight blocks from the bank entrance on School street. W. R. Evans, president of the bank, announced that the institution would continue to pay indefinitely.
"The bank has in assets more than $20,000,000, which can be converted within three days," he said, adding that the bank was absolutely sound and there was no valid reason for the run.

Edward O. Gourdin, negro athlete and the greatest track man Harvard ever produced, has ended his college athletic career. And he retired in a blaze of glory. Appearing in the international college games in Harvard stadium, Gourdin set a new world's record for the broad jump by hurdling through the air for 25 feet and 3 inches. The best previous recognised mark was 24 feet 11 inches, made by Peter O'Connor of Ireland in 1901.

FORMERLY

When a man wanted to sell a horse a hundred years ago, he'd round up his neighbors and tell them about it. It was a long, drawn out, tedious process. It consisted of a series of demonstrations, bickering and finally a sale—usually at a lower price than the one originally asked.

At the present time this procedure is impracticable. The man's neighbors are too numerous and scattered to tell by word of mouth about his horse. It would be almost impossible, by the old method, to find the people who might be interested.

Now, the man with a horse to sell, reaches every prospective buyer in the territory in no time. He gets his story into every barn, stable—every place where a horse would be wanted. He uses

There is a Tested Want Ad rule that can be applied to satisfy your wants. Consult our Want Ad Department.

We are living in an age of speed. We are not satisfied with the old systems of travel or labor or housekeeping. We must have trains, machinery, electrical appliances—instruments of speed.

No longer can we tolerate the old methods of trade. Classified Advertising has come because of popular demand.

The Want Ad accomplished over night what formerly took days and weeks. Classified Advertising is a service designed for speed.

No other method of salesmanship is as economical. By presenting your want through the classified columns, you reach every one of the very people you seek.

Over 90 percent of the families in Portsmouth and surrounding territory read the classified columns of The Portsmouth Papers. You could not reach these people any more completely if you made a personal house-to-house canvass of the section—and the expense incurred would be hundreds of times greater, not considering the loss of time.

Because it reaches so many people at so low a cost, Classified Advertising can do wonders. It can accomplish feats that you might believe impossible.

Tested Want Ads greatly increase the power of Classified. Experience has proved that some ads are better result getters than others. Consult us about them.

Begin using Tested Want Ads now to make money—to buy, sell, rent, get or exchange. Think of your needs at home, at the office, store, factory or shop. Tested Want Ads will find them.

Local Women Cleverly Deceived; Learn That "Woman" Who Recently Sold Them Corsets Is "Regular Man"

Anger on the part of many of the best known women in Portsmouth was relieved Monday when high priced corsets they ordered several weeks ago put in their appearance and they say they are actually up to specifications. They ranged in price from $15 to $20.

These corsets were sold supposedly by a woman who since leaving the city, presumably for Iowa, was none other than a man who made up so cleverly that very few, if any persons, detected that he was a female impersonator. Those who saw him say the famous Julian Eltinge had nothing on him when it comes to impersonating the gentle sex. In fact those who purchased corsets from him will be surprised to learn that they picked their corsets from a man's salesman and that he measured them and was very careful to get every measurement just so, he saying on repeated occasions that unless the corsets fit neat and snug they were not worthy of being worn. From what a Times man learned Monday, the salesman saw that the corsets would fit very snug as he was insistent that every measurement be just so.

When the store looked out that the supposedly saleswoman was none other than a real man, many women called up the boarding house where the salesman was staying and begged him not to reveal their names.

"Is this the woman—er, man, I mean, who sold me a corset?" was the question frequently put up to the salesman.

"Well I have just learned that you are a horrid old man and I don't want you to ever give my name to any person," the buyer would invariably say in stern, serious voice.

"Oh very well I shall not. Secretly you know is one of the features of our business," the impersonator would answer with all the daintiness that belongs to femininity.

It was not until after the two men and the real woman left that the story leaked out that the salesman of the trio was a man disguised as a woman.

"Why I saw the woman around my house two weeks and neither myself nor my wife detected the fact that he was in reality a man," the man at whose home they stayed on Second street told a Times man today.

"The men would go to the telephone and talk just like a woman for many customers. She frequently changed her clothes and no matter what she put on she looked like a woman. I will say that she fooled me and my wife and we were around the salesman all the time."

"The trio seemed to have plenty of money and got along well among themselves. They reported fine business here, saying that Portsmouth was one of the best cities they had ever struck," the man continued at whose home they lived.

"Any number of women called up the salesman and asked him to come to their house as they wished to be measured for a corset. The trio told me that this city felt hard for their goods and that the impersonator fooled everybody."

It was stated today that the only excuse the man had for disguising himself was that he was a better salesman than the man or woman with him and he could get more sales if he dressed all up like a real woman. And those who saw the impersonator for nothing to admit that in the art of making up he has few superiors.

His hands were small, soft, velvet, his voice was so sweet and delectable and his feet, oh well, a No. 1 shoe, rumor says, was much too large for him. And eyes, he had the loveliest blue eyes and a complexion that would make a peach blush with shame.

The clever imitator of a regular corsetier certainly put his stuff over here, where the picking is said to have been extremely fruitful.

Malone To Face Serious Charge

Late Monday afternoon an affidavit was being drawn to be filed against Fred Malone, of the West Side, who was arrested Saturday night on a charge of riding the mails. As soon as the affidavit is filed with U. S. Commissioner J. F. Johnley, he will set the time when Malone will be arraigned.

The arrest of Malone on so serious charge, created a sensation on the West Side, where he was born and reared. He was prominent in church circles and friends were dumbfounded over his arrest.

At the post office today it was stated that he was caught red-handed by marked money and that he admitted having opened letters Saturday night, which contained decoy money.

At first Malone stoutly maintained his innocence, but when post office detectives plucked him down and told him how they had been shadowing him, he broke down and confessed his guilt. Money found on the floor near where he had been standing, proved to be money Malone had taken from letters just previous to his arrest, the detectives claimed.

Hatfield Was Ringleader Of Desparadoes

At N. & W. division headquarters in East Portsmouth it was stated Monday that with the killing of Sid Hatfield, former police chief of Matewan, which occurred in the court house yard at Welch, this morning, lawlessness along the N. & W. would begin to clear up.

Hatfield was looked upon as the ringleader of a gang of desperadoes, who have terrorized that section for many years. For some time the prediction was made that Hatfield would get into one too many fights.

William Newsom, Fred Bake, Thomas Shaw, Art Nunley and J. W. Finney, five of the nine men taken a raid on a card game on the third floor of the building at 1004 Waller street Saturday midnight, pleaded guilty to gambling when arraigned in Municipal court Monday and Judge Sprague passed them all a fine of $5 and costs except Kinney, who drew $25 when he admitted he was the keeper of the game. The cases of four others, Emory Shirey, Ralph Shively, Gilbert Hale and William Irwin, who were taken in the raid, were continued until the defendants can appear in court while the complaint against Robert Martin charged with renting rooms for gambling purposes, was dismissed for lack of convincing evidence. Martin also claimed knowledge that the rooms were used for conducting a card game. The defendants all told the court that it was a friendly little game of "draw" for small stakes in which they were engaged.

The Executive Committee of the Woman's Republican Club recommends that the women of Portsmouth be represented on the Board of Education, and takes great pleasure in presenting the name of Mrs. Rowena Drew Marting as a candidate for that office. The interest and the support of all the voters of Portsmouth are solicited by the Women's Republican Club for the election of Mrs. Marting as a non-partisan candidate.

The Executive Committee of the Women's Republican Club held a very important meeting Monday afternoon in the Women's club rooms in the Masonic Temple. At this meeting the name of Mrs. Rowena Drew Marting was endorsed for the ticket in the November election for the office of member of the Portsmouth Board of Education.

Miss Emma Cramer, teacher in the Portsmouth High school, was endorsed as a most satisfactory candidate for the office of councilman-at-large, subject to the August primaries. The Women's Republican Club highly endorses Miss Emma Cramer and solicits the interest and the support of all the voters of Portsmouth in her election.

Miss Garthee stated that Jackson was a patron of the place, but she stoutly denied the look and hair came off her head.

The Olympic Peninsula. From the cities of Puget sound, in the state of Washington, the eye ranges to the Olympic mountains, whose serrated profile marks the extreme northwestern corner of the United States, and their peaks and the great forests at their feet constitute a practically unexplored region. It is said that Mt. Olympus, the chief of the range, is 8,150 feet in elevation, but there are many peaks varying from 7,000 to 8,000 feet. The vegetation on the rugged hills and in the valleys is truly remarkable. Below the elevation of 5,000 feet the gigantic trees of the great northwestern forest are so thick and the undergrowth is so tangled that by hard work one can travel but a quarter of a mile in an hour off the trails. Black bears, panthers, wildcats and wolves abound.

Aven in the Dark. Owing to the inadequate rates prescribed by the authorities, the electric company of Stratford-Avon has been allowed to run down so far as the equipment is concerned and it is feared that the plant will go to pieces at any moment and leave the town of Stratford in darkness. As the town is a literary mecca, with tourists in great numbers there all the time, such an incident might prove to be very inconvenient.

The Dark Ages. The Dark Ages is the term applied to that portion of the Middle Ages which reached from the decline of classical learning to the renaissance. It embraces the period from the Fifth to the Fifteenth, or more narrowly, from the Fifth to the Eleventh century.

American Sapphire Fields. One of the government experts at Washington gives a striking description of the treasure that the state of Montana possesses in sapphires. The only systematic mining for these precious stones in the United States is done in that state. The annual output exceeds 500,000 carats, including the stones that are suitable for cutting as gems and those that are useful only for mechanical purposes. It is said that the lapidaries in Montana do their work that is done on the stones that are sent to London to be cut. Montana might well be called the "Gem State," in view of the fact that her output of precious stones exceeds the production in that line of all the rest of the United States.

Sid Hatfield

His head and one in his breast. Hatfield was chief of police in the little mining village of Matewan on May 19, 1920, when a party of private detectives were sent there to evict miners from houses of the Stone Mountain Coal Corporation. He was charged with leading the people of the town who battled with the detectives as they were about to take a train for Bluefield after the evictions. Ten persons were killed in the fight and Hatfield, Chambers and 22 others were indicted.

At the trial, which was held at Williamson, the county seat of Mingo county, early this year, T. C. Lively was one of the most important witnesses for the state. He testified that he had gone to Matewan soon after the battle and opening a store there he had gained the confidence of many of those mentioned in connection with the shooting. He admitted on the stand that he was in the employ of the detective agency whose men had been killed in the fight.

Lively closed his store at Matewan during the trial, which resulted in the acquittal of Hatfield and companions, and his name had not been mentioned in connection with the Mingo industrial troubles until today.

MADEWAN, W. VA., August 1.—Sid Hatfield, who was killed at Welch today, although only 26 years of age, was one of the best known men along the West Virginia-Kentucky border. He was born in this community and after going to work in the mines became a mine electrician. He early became interested in politics and was made chief of police of Matewan under Mayor C. C. Testerman, who was killed in the fight with private detectives in 1920, and whose widow Hatfield married less than two weeks later at Huntington.

The tragedy in Welch today made Mrs. Hatfield a widow the second time in less than two years.

After Hatfield's acquittal at Williamson for the part the state charged that he played in the fight here, he returned to Matewan and transformed the jewelry store which Testerman formerly owned into a hardware store, which sold among other things, arms and ammunition.

In the spring election he was elected constable of Magnolia district, the township in which Matewan is situated. This office gave him the right to carry arms in spite of Governor Morgan's proclamation of martial law for Mingo county.

Soon after his election, Hatfield was arrested, charged with assaulting P. J. Smith, superintendent of the Stone Mountain Coal Corporation, from the houses of which discharged miners had been evicted just before the Matewan fight a little more than a year ago. Hatfield was taken to Williamson, where he gave bond for his appearance in court.

He returned to Matewan and was carrying on the business of his store when Sheriff Hatfield, of McDowell county, a distant relative, came here and arrested him on an indictment, charging him with participating in a pistol attack on Mohawk, a mining town just over the line in McDowell county.

He was taken to Welch, the county seat, where it was understood, here the trial was to begin this morning.

Ed Chambers, who was killed at Hatfield's side, was the youngest of the defendants in the Matewan battle trial, being scarcely more than 21 years old. He served under Hatfield as a special policeman in Matewan and like him, was permitted to carry arms. Both men looked upon as being able to "draw quick and hit the mark."

The Climate of Finland.

The climate of Finland is rigorous but beautiful, marked by long winters and short but hot summers. It lies within the zone of cyclones and anticyclones, which pass over northern Europe from west to east at intervals of two or three days throughout the year and give variability to the winds and weather. The mean annual temperature varies between the southern and the northern boundary from forty to thirty-four degrees Fahrenheit, ranging from sixty-four to sixty-eight degrees Fahrenheit in July. The extreme range of temperature is about 110 to 115 degrees Fahrenheit, from prevailing winds in winter are from the south and southwest and in summer from the north, northwest and west. The amount of rainfall varies from ten inches in the northern to twenty-five inches in the southern part, being greatest during August.

New Hope Looms-Harding

since men of our race came here to found a new state have been the most momentous and the most pregnant in all the progress of human kind.

"To this and the Virginia shore were transplanted the seeds of representative democracy, the new blood of nationality through association and representation, and there has developed seemingly the most dependable form of popular government ever witnessed in the world.

"Whether we reflect upon the restraints upon freedom which the fathers imposed, or measure the broader liberty under the law of today, here began the reign of dependable public opinion, which unfailingly is the law of highest civilization. One may say whether the puritans at home would have been able to work out such a system if there had been no American colonies and the colonial influences to react upon the mother country. Doubtless the English revolution, which came soon after the settlement at Plymouth, would have come even had there been no settlement here, no Massachusetts Bay colony, no Virginia plantation. But it is easy to believe that in long struggle after the restoration, the fruits of the revolution, the strengthened parliamentary institutions and the restrictions of royal prerogative were helped by the influences of colonial democracy.

The daring thing in fashion today is modesty. Witness, for instance, this evening gown, from Paris worn by Nina Whitmore, which it even covers the collar bone, while it certainly reveals no more in the region of the knee than is shown in the street frocks of our best flappers and grandmothers. It is a black and white creation made of white silk crepe.

ALL STARS DEFEAT SCIOTOVILLE, 7 TO 1; LOSERS BEAT NEW BOSTON RED SOX 8 TO 6

Fighting like a back yard full of cats on unfriendly terms, the Sciotoville Braves finally emerged the winners over the New Boston Red Sox after nine exciting rounds in the main event at the Millbrook pasture Sunday afternoon, grabbing the victory out of the clutches of the losers by staging a belated rally in the ninth frame when five large and powerful as well as useful tallies filtered over the pin.

The final count was 8 to 6, and incidentally, the winners earned the distinction and honor of taking a crack at Gabe's All Stars in the aftermath. However, the distinction and honor is about all the consolation and glory the Sciotoville tribe got out of the job as the task was too much for them as later events proved for the Stars played rings around the Reds from the new Sixth ward, who were blocked down at every turn. The score of this combat was 7 to 1, with the result never in doubt.

The first game furnished the thrills of the afternoon as there was plenty of action from start to finish and there was some tall rooting especially during the critical situations towards the end when the supporters of the two clubs lined up along the first and third base lines and whooped things up in great style.

Goodman and Shover were the opposing hurlers and both pitched splendidly in spots but both were chased off the hill before the battle was over. The Sciotoville gang got away from a slight advantage in the second stanza when Fugitt's single, C. Schuler's triple and Goodman's two-run home run produced a brace of markers and they increased their lead to three in the fifth when Kent walked and O. Artie brought him the rest of the way by poking a single to right.

Goodman went along like a house on fire for the first six rounds, but in the seventh he blew higher than Gilroy's kite and when the smoke of the bombardment had cleared away the Red Sox had forged to the front by putting over five runs. Schwane's home run started the fat round with a single to right and then Goodman passed Worthington and Semones, the latter pinch hitting for Clark, filling the bases. Edwards came through with a safe blow to short, Schwane's larger and Worthington counting. This was enough for Mr. Goodman and he was yanked and Smith, who took up the burden, was given a hot reception for on the first ball pitched Shover shot a single into center and two more Sox registered. Shover worked his way to third and came over on E. Schuler's fumble.

"Rooster" then settled down and got the side after Taylor was caught stealing he whiffed Hoover and Chin for the last two outs. The Sox came back strong in their last turn at bat in the ninth and threatened to drag the contest out of the fire, hopping out Smith's shoots for three safe strikes, clogging the cushions, but only one tally resulted, the veteran hurler finishing strong by fanning both Chin and Tibbs for the final outs.

Mowery, who relieved Shover when the latter weakened in the ninth, was both wild and effective. He worked a wild pitch on the first batter which admitted a run which was followed by two hits and walk and an error and five runs were over before the dazed Sox knew what was happening.

SECOND GAME

In the aftermath the two teams battled on even terms for four rounds, but in the fifth the Stars broke the ice and scored a run on a couple of scratch hits, but after that Rollins' Men gained the "Rooster" most severely, kicking his outfit around the field most brutally, amassing a total of 10 safe blows, two of which were four-ply shots propelled by the bats of Lewis and Smith. Both were tremendous wallops and on both occasions the ball carried to the tall and usual beyond the fence in right center.

Pilot Ab. Rollins was on the mound for the Stars and despite the strenuous efforts the Sciotoville gang could get but one solitary marker off his clever pitching, the lone tally coming in the ninth when the opposition launched two of their six hits.

Lewis' homer came in the sixth, and Val, old boy, accounted for two more scores in the seventh when with two on he poked a double to the center-field fence. Smith, first up in the eighth, eluded his circuit drive, and then Lewis, who was the hitting kid of the day, drove out his fourth safe drive and scored with Stillwell, who was passed, when J. Artie made a mad leave on Rollins' jumper to short.

Yesterday's Features

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The Cincinnati National team has become the hurdle which is unsettling the rival contenders for the league leadership. Yesterday the second division Reds triumphed New York twice and pulled them back from the first place pinnacle which they were enjoying jointly with Pittsburgh for the first time in nearly two months. Last week Cincinnati tripped up Boston in a doubleheader after the Braves had shown their quality in a hard fought series with the Pirates. Pittsburgh is not scheduled to meet Cincinnati for a month.

Both of the New York-Cincinnati contests went into extra innings, the first lasting 12 and the second 11. The Reds were out batted 13 hits to 5 in the second struggle, but came through with the needed runs to win. Two home runs failed to win a victory for the Brooklyn Nationals over St. Louis which succeeded in scoring 3 of its 4 runs after two men were out.

Good pitching was displayed by Mays, of New York Americans and Winters, of Philadelphia Nationals. Mays held the Cleveland world's champions to two hits and Winters limited the Chicago Cubs to four.

Goldie Rapp, of the Philadelphia Nationals, failed to get a safe hit for the first time in 27 games.

Toney And Young Mix It Up

Hardly a day passes but two of the New York Giants get into a scrap. It is a strenuous life to play for McGraw. Saturday Toney and Young mixed it up in a lively fashion before separated.

Giants Defeat Manchester

The Giants, one of the city's strongest teams journeyed to Manchester yesterday and defeated the crack team of that place, 4 to 2. It was a well played game and was witnessed by a large crowd. The box score:

Loses Uniform

Basil Carver, catcher for the Giants of this city, lost his uniform at the Manchester bout last night. He has notified the officials of Manchester to make a search for it.

SOME WALLOP

Outfielder Lewis cracked one into Lawrence county in the All-Star-Sciotoville game yesterday. It would have sailed over the fence had one been there. When two fielders finally relayed the pill to the diamond he was reposing gently on the players' bench.

Sciotoville Team Nifty

The Sciotoville team made a splendid showing in Millbrook yesterday. The club is well balanced and has a right to beat any team in these parts. The team has dash and pepper and with one or two changes the club would be a nifty diamond aggregation.

Sweet Papa Read This

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 1.—New York lost two extra inning games to Cincinnati Sunday, the first by a score of 8 to 7 and the second 4 to 3. The first was an exciting battle, which went twelve innings. River pitched the entire game, though hit hard at times. Douglas was pounded severely in the fourth and fifth and gave away to Ryan.

The second game was a pitching duel between Donahue and Nohr, in which Cincinnati staged a sensational rally in the eleventh, Groh's smash to the left field wall ending the game. The score:

COMING TO A SHOW DOWN

FROM all reports it appears the administration is not deeply interested in the new tariff bill. It is tolerated because it has become a sort of fixed habit for one party to tinker with the tariff through undoing of what tinkering the other had previously done with the same matter.

President Harding believes tax legislation should come first and this he is insisting shall be done. He is opposed, however, by a rather powerful wing of his party in the senate, who for reasons want the tariff bill disposed of first and several important agricultural measures considered before a new revenue scheme is put on passage.

The course of the senate will determine to what extent the President controls congress, leastwise the extent to which he is willing to go in exercising control, since there is no question he can dictate its course, if he chooses to issue peremptory orders.

From a party standpoint he is justified in putting revenue consideration ahead of anything else, especially the tariff. The latter was not an issue in the campaign. Each attempt to inject it therein was dismissed with a contemptuous scoff. It was entirely different without stint—that it is faulty and inevitably so there is no denying. It has many inequalities and unnecessary aggravations, that it will do well to correct.

The main matter of it, however, is an entirely different proposition.

That main matter is the pledged reduction of expenses that went with the attacks upon the war measure, were the sauce and point of it in truth. Like assaults have been made in other campaigns, a plenitude of pledges of retrenchment have gone forth and carried to election, but performance has seldom if ever come up to promises.

President Harding may show something different, but the stars do not read that he will.

There will be lots of shifting in a new taxation bill, but there will be no reduction of taxes in the aggregate on the whole.

Stick a pin there.

ALWAYS THE OTHER SIDE

THE Marion Star, President Harding's paper, offers some timely and proper advice to summer parties, that explain why the sign: "No trespassing" or "Closed" bar the way to so many inviting nooks.

It isn't typical of the meanness and selfishness of the country folks, but the visible and outward sign of carelessness and lack of consideration on the part of city people generally.

If deep shade and heavy grass tempt one group to tarry there likewise will it do so with another and further must there be some pride in it on the part of the owner. But alas, too many take no thought of this. They feast and they frolic there and that is the end of it. When they go away it is a sad litter they leave behind them, a pleasant, inviting place converted into a noisome scramble of chicken bones, pieces of bread, scraps of oily paper and boxes and tin cans. Small wonder the average farmer fears a visit from town strangers.

A little forethought, a slight respect for the rights of others would mean a vast difference. Such of the picnic wreckage as is combustible could be heaped together and burned with due caution that no smoldering embers are left on departure, and the cans and non-combustibles thrown into a nearby gully.

It isn't exactly agreeable to anyone to seize upon his possessions without so much as by your leave and when they are misused irritation is natural and acute.

Think of the rights and feelings of others when you stop by the wayside and the world will be friendlier.

THANK YOU, MR. HUGHES

THE Russian Soviet government having sent an appeal to America for aid of twenty millions of its victims, who are on the verge of starvation, Secretary Hughes promptly answers no relief shall go hence unless the Soviet government first releases American prisoners.

European correspondents, who view everything, these days, through horrid glasses, say the reply of Mr. Hughes precipitates a situation charged with tremendous possibilities.

Well, suppose it does, what of that? This thing of making America the almoner of every begging scamp and scoundrel government has become a contagion and a scourge. She's got a right to lay down conditions to her gifts and the Secretary is right when he makes an indispensable citizen their liberty or starve, in so far as this government is concerned. We have something more than a hint of the sufferings and tortures our own unfortunate fellow-citizens are subjected to over there and long endurance in patience is about ready to go further than the tremendous possibility, suggested as from the state department, that an embargo of all Russian ports will be set up and the Soviet brought to its senses by a real taste of starvation.

And here this thought arises: We can't keep out of it. The tide of human events have inextricably intertwined and intermingled all the affairs of all the nations. What affects one affects the others. An embargo might accomplish something, it might accomplish nothing, if alone, because Sweden and the little nations that lie along Germany and southern Europe hold open gate to Russia. To make an embargo actually effective there must be a league of nations, a concert of governments if that sounds better.

Bamboos Serve All Purposes

The first thing a farmer does in China is to plant round three sides at least of the site of his house a bamboo fence or grove, the second to cut it down gradually, and therefrom make every conceivable thing he may want, from the house itself down to his fan, opium-pipe and chopsticks.

Showers of Toads and Fish

It is on record that toads and small fish have fallen from the clouds. Such occurrences have been explained by the supposition that the objects were taken up in violent whirlwinds and, perhaps, transported a considerable distance before they were dropped to the earth.

The Wild Animal Business

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 1.—Suppose you wanted an animal or a mountain lion, would you know where to get it? Or suppose it is an imported white tiger, or a black bear, or a wild cat, or a brown bear. Filling the demand for these animals on a wholesale scale is a curious business, but a thriving and fairly large one. There are many business concerns in the United States engaged in the collection of animals from all parts of the globe, and their sales to private individuals, circuses, and zoological parks. A number of these firms are located along the Mexican border.

The highest part of the business is the importation of canary birds. Before the beginning of the World War, canaries were imported into the United States at a rate of more than a thousand a day. The record for one year was reached shortly before the outbreak of the war, when the government recorded the entry of 292,000 canaries.

Another bird item covers such game birds as quail, pheasants and wild turkeys. As it is contrary to law to trap any game birds in the United States, birds for stocking private game preserves must be imported or the shooting suspended for a period of years while the dwindled stock has a chance to multiply. The price for live "Bob White" quail is usually from $2.50 to $3.00 for each bird, depending upon the size of the order. Mountain quail are quoted a little lower, while turkeys of the wild variety will often cost as much as $17 apiece.

If for any reason a brown or black bear should be desired, it may be secured on fairly short notice for about $75. Mountain lions, alive, cost as much as $150. The smaller and commoner wild cat costs only about $20. For the larger animals, the whole demand comes from the circus people and zoos. The prices for some of the big beasts range up to thousands of dollars. A good giraffe will cost $5,000. Zoologists men say that there are only about 20 now in the United States, the largest group being that owned by one circus. Few zoos can boast the possession of a giraffe.

Another animal which is rare in the United States is the rhinoceros, although its cousin, the hippopotamus, can be seen in almost any collection of wild beasts imported from other climes. The gorilla, of the four great anthropoid varieties, is very scarce, the only one in the United States having died last winter from pneumonia. Good specimens of either the rhino or the gorilla are worth at least $5,000.

Lions Not Greatly in Demand

Tigers command a better price than lions. Right now lions are cheap on the market, and some can be obtained for as little as $350 or $400. Lions in captivity often breed well, and a considerable number now make their homes in this country. Not many years ago the American bison had dwindled to such small numbers that a good specimen was worth a considerable sum. The efforts to preserve the bison, both wild herds and those in captivity, have resulted in building them up to the point where all danger of extinction is past. Consequently they are not so valuable.

Elephants always command a good price. The last two elephants purchased for the zoo in Washington were small ones, and $5,000 was paid for the pair. A full grown elephant would be worth about this much money. Elephants rarely breed in captivity, but quite a number are caught every year in the big elephant drives. By the way, animal men say the great age attributed to elephants by fiction writers is a product of their imaginations, that the average length of an elephant's life is 50 to 60 years, and that it is rarely indeed that an elephant reaches 100 years.

It is not an uncommon sight to find black leopards in zoos and circuses. Contrary to general belief, this is not a distinct species, but a sporadic occurrence among the leopard cats. These are merely melanistic animals, occurring more frequently among leopards than among the larger members of the feline family. The animals have in their make-up a large share of pigment, and are just the opposite of albino types, which completely lack pigment. There have been cases of albino tigers and leopards. There is at least one pair of a totally black tiger in the United States.

On the fur of the black leopard, in the proper light, the outlines of the spots may be seen easily. This example of pigment in some other birds and animals is not uncommon, many varieties of hawks often being much darker than the ordinary color of their brothers and sisters. The offspring of a black leopard might all be the usual spotted animal, but in some other kinds of beasts, by careful selection and breeding, most of the young ones born will be pigmented to such an extent that all will present an appearance very different from the original animal. In one notable instance, the darker animals have been produced in commercial quantities, and excellent specimens command prices a hundred times as great as the lighter colored specimens of the breed.

Breeding Silver Foxes

Careful selection of the blackest of the melanistic foxes from generation to generation developed the silver black fox, some specimens of which are worth $3,000, as compared with a price of about $30 which the common red fox brings.

Fox farms where these beasts are raised for the fur they bear have become quite common in the United States and Canada. The Department of Agriculture says there are about 400 fox farms in this country, devoted mostly to the propagation of silver black foxes, and that there are more than 5,000 such foxes now in the United States. Several hundred are killed each year for the fur trade. In developing the silver black fox, it was found that in parts of Canada, particularly Prince Edward Island, the black fox puppies occurred more frequently than in the United States, and most of the black foxes imported here came from Prince Edward Island, Canada, according to the figures in the possession of the Department of Agriculture, now possesses about 6,000 silver black foxes in captivity.

The black fox and the black leopard and a few other melanistic forms are common enough not to be freaks, and therefore have a legitimate place in zoos. Most animal experts contend that out and out freaks have not, as they are not representatives of any breed of animals, but are accidents of nature. However, Superintendent Hollister of the Zoological Park in Washington says he is continually having offered to him five-legged calves, two-headed serpents, and every other conceivable strange formation of animal life. Without exception, these offers are refused. The only beasts approaching an unusual type of animal harbored in the Washington zoo are a cross between a female ass and a zebra, and a cross between a male zebra and a horse. These, Mr. Hollister pointed out, were not freaks, but such economic experiments in animal industry as the cross between the lion and the common cow.

Huguenot Exodus

During the reign of Louis XIV the Edict of Nantes, which had conferred upon the Huguenots liberty of conscience and admission to all offices of honor and emolument, was revoked, largely through the influence of Madame de Maintenon. This was followed by a terrible persecution, over 100,000 Huguenots being driven out, to carry their industry, wealth and skill to other countries. They went to England, Germany, Switzerland and other parts of Europe. One band emigrated from France to America, settling at Port Royal, S. C., in 1703. Others followed to New York, Massachusetts and other North American colonies.

A Real Poet

A certain young woman, a stenographer of a New York firm is best known in an admiring suburban circle as a "poetess." She jots her inspirations down in shorthand notes, transcribes them on her typewriter, and submits the effusion to the local newspaper, which sometimes finds place for them. One morning when she was commuting from New Jersey, there was a heavy fog on the North River, and the ferryboat was proceeding on its way gropingly with frequent stops and much whistling. At one time, out of the gloom, a great hoarse whistle suggesting an ocean liner sounded near. There was a stir of uneasiness among the crowded passengers, and the poet's male companion looked up from a newspaper with a nervous frown.

"Are you afraid?" he asked of the poetess.
"Afraid?"—the word came with a withering scorn. "Afraid! I? Why, you know Shelly died by drowning!"

Mr. Puff: "I should say she did, it almost knocked the breath out of me when I saw it."

His Calling

"Fine."
"He's taken a course in modern salesmanship and can sell anything from a package of pins up to a locomotive."
"Had a well-rounded education, I take it."
"He has. Knows chemistry; the foreign postal rates; parcel post rules and regulations; can speak three languages and is always courteous. Where do you think I could find a position for him?"
"I don't know, but with all those qualifications he ought to make a good clerk in a drug store."

Had He a Cocked Eye?

"When I was once in danger from a lion," said the old African explorer, "I tried sitting down and staring at him, as I had no weapons."
"How did it work?" asked his companion.
"Perfectly. The lion didn't even offer to touch me."
"Strange! How do you account for it?"
"Well, sometimes I've thought it was because I sat down on the branch of a very tall tree."

Q. How old are the various Cabinet Members?—L. W. M.

A. Secretary of State Hughes is 59 years of age; Secretary of Treasury Mellon is 66; Secretary of War Weeks, 61; Attorney General Daugherty, 61; Postmaster General Hays, 42; Secretary of the Navy Denby, 51; Secretary of Interior Fall, 60; Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, 55; Secretary of Commerce Hoover, 47; and Secretary of Labor Davis, 48.

Q. For what term of service are men taken in the Air Service?—E. W. L.

A. The Air Service of the War Department says that no flying cadets will be taken into service until next December. A flying cadet enlists for a period of one year. It is customary, however, to grant a discharge and a commission in the reserve corps as soon as a cadet has qualified, regardless of the period of time which may have elapsed.

Q. Please tell me how fast a claim can travel.—E. H.

A. The Bureau of Fisheries says that claims do not travel much at all, and it is difficult to determine their speed. However, a special record, which is on file in that bureau, shows that a claim traveled four inches in 22 minutes.

Q. What relation was the de Lesseps who built the Suez Canal to the one who was in the French company that started the Panama Canal?—J. W. Y.

A. Vincent Ferdinand de Lesseps, who promoted and constructed the Suez Canal, was the same de Lesseps who later was president of the company which bought the Wyse concession and started the building of the Panama Canal. He was at this time just 75 years of age.

Q. What is French pastry?—A. E. D.

A. French pastry is a term used for a platter of individual fancy cakes, such as eclairs, fruit tarts, cakes, Napoleons, Pains, Nougats and cream puffs.

Q. What is the difference between biting and sucking insects?—N. H. M.

A. The biting or gnawing insects are those which actually masticate and swallow some portion of the solid substance of the plant, as the wood, bark, leaves, flowers or fruit. They include most of the injurious larvae, many beetles, and the grasshoppers. The sucking insects are those which injure plants by the gradual extraction of juices from the bark, leaves, or fruit, and include the plant-bugs, aphides, scale insects, thrips, and plant-feeding mites. These insects possess, instead of biting jaws, sucking beaks or bristles.

Q. What determines the boundaries of the earth's zones?—D. B. S.

A. The division of the earth's surface into torrid, temperate, and frigid zones is determined by the amount of the inclination of the earth's axis to the plane of the ecliptic. This inclination being 23 degrees, 27 minutes, the torrid zone extends from the Equator to latitude 23 degrees, 27 minutes both north and south, while the two temperate zones extend from the torrid zone to within 23 degrees, 27 minutes of either pole, the remaining regions lying about each pole forming the two frigid zones.

Changed His Opinion

In many of the rural districts of the United States where money does not circulate with great rapidity, services are paid for in kind. Farmers, for example, will give potatoes, eggs, etc., in payment for doctor's fees. A young surgeon, who had occasion to operate in one of these districts, hopefully approached the husband of the patient and asked for his fee, which amounted to $100.

"Doc," said the old man, "I haven't got ready cash on hand. Suppose you let me pay you in kind."
"Well, I guess that will be all right," replied the young doctor, cheerfully.
"What do you deal in?"
"Horsemanish, doc," answered the old man.

A cheery little fellow of seven, whose optimism was a perpetual surprise to his parents, was being pushed by his father.
He was sprawling across his parents' knees and after six strokes of the cane he muttered to himself, "It won't matter. I don't sit down much."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Helping The Home Makers

The past decade has been marked by notable advances in the comforts and conveniences of American homes. It has been a general movement everywhere on farms, in villages and small towns, and in the lesser cities of the country and marks a period of substantial appreciation of the home and its economic problems.

The range of these improvements has touched not only interior but the perches outside the house. They are better kept today than ever before—are cleaner and more inviting to the eye. On the farm the barn and the hog pen are no longer built near the kitchen and living quarters; the poultry, formerly given range over the front yard, are now remote from the house along with all other live stock. In towns, necessary out-houses are not clustered near the kitchen door as of yore.

Purches—hundreds of thousands of them—have been built in front and rear of home, those in the rear usually screened from flies and have added immeasurably to the comfort and pleasure of the home makers in summer, being practically additional rooms, in the kitchen near the stoves and utilities for better cooking, better care of food, the saving of steps, and general convenience, have been installed. Everything that adds to cleanliness, and so to good sanitary conditions, has been given attention. The old damp cellar, dirty, dark and uninviting, has been transformed into a basement, dry, neat, white-washed or painted, with apartments for food, for the family washing, and for fuel and heating—thus doing away with the unsightly coal house and wood shed.

The dining rooms have been adorned with the use of the word after consideration with letter furnishings—chairs, tables, sideboards and china closets, and made more comfortable in every way. The old carpets have been tipped up to give place to rugs everywhere, in the living rooms, in the bedrooms, in the halls and in the bedrooms, disposing of a great burden to house keepers. Bathrooms have become the life instead of the works are unknown. Wind and other pumps have made hot and cold water supply available even in remote country places.

These are but a few of the very important helps which have come to home makers from ocean to ocean, and added beyond computation to the efficiency, comfort, happiness and health of the people. The continuance and extension of these things that make home life better and easier, not only for the home maker, but for the head of the family and the children, is a matter of first-rate consequence to the Republic, because living conditions which find refining influences upon the thinking of mothers, fathers and children. The family is the unit of life, its attitude upon government, education, morality and religion is always fateful, and its preservation and sturdy depend wholly upon the conditions under which it exists.

A nation of comfortable, clean dwelling houses, of mothers who have time for recreation and reading; of children who find refining influences in their homes; of fathers who find an atmosphere of domestic happiness; with culture with the civilization it creates. It is better to establish a convenient kitchen for a needy home maker, a pleasant living room for poor children, a shady, grassy lawn for recreation and reading; than to build a humble residence, and clean, airy sleeping rooms protected from flies and mosquitoes, than it is to give gifts of money to people who have not been trained to use money in the way best adapted to promote the health and happiness of the home maker and those who depend upon her for the influences which dominate every real home.

Foot Comfort

The advertisement of a shoe fitter takes up the subject of pinched feet that suffer because of misfits, which reminds us of a statement that wooden shoes, which are rigid and cannot "fit" the feet as do leather shoes, are the most comfortable of all foot wear. We cannot vouch for that, but tender feet are not limited to wooden shoes. The laborer may have them, although the soldier has, for the reason that he wears stout, heavy and unsympathetic stiff and unyielding shoes.

But of all things to insure comfort in shoes we have never found anything to compare with a heavy, rigid sole that is at least a quarter of an inch thick.

This summer we are having summer weather, and saying the same things about it as of yore. It will be the same when winter comes again. 'Tis a blessed thing to criticize family old Nature.

New-York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, August 1.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up and to the Grand Central for a breakfast of baked hash and trifles and saw Miss Marilyn Miller, the dancer, in a brave new flowered gown. Came a letter from Karl Kitchen, now in Biarritz, and I wish I might be there away from the worry and heat of the city.

Bought for my wife a pipkin of Chinese snuff and crossing the highway was almost struck by a fire wagon and was frightened as never before. Troubled that I am not now neat in clothes, a poor thing for a gentleman to sure in. And what a fine manner of man I saw today in E. Kelly, the scrivener, who has a noble new scarf and a handsome tweed sport-coat.

Going to the Astor grill I saw many people of the clans, in especial Madame Nazimova in a lace gown of black, and Owen Moore and his new wife, Miss Kathryn, both looking mighty merry as well they might be. Had a cher, baked potato and fig pasty.

Home and labored awhile and read to me in the popular magazines which do grow worse and worse in contents. In the evening with my wife, poor wretch, for a walk and Anthony Paul Kelly, the playwright, joined us as did also Earl Carroll and we walked to Broadway to see the new theatre Earl is building, the dirt being dug and the foundations stones in, and then to Earl's roof bungalow for a beaker of orange juice and in a merry mood and home and to bed.

New York's Tin Pan Alley is not writing all the song hits. In fact the old alley seems to have struck a paucity of ideas this summer. "Cherie" became from Paris as did also "Mon Homme." And the Pacific Coast is responsible for the dirty with the crazy title "Wha-Wha." The expression "wha-wha" was born in the Sunset Inn at Santa Monica, Cal., where all the Hollywood moving picture folk go to cut up and carry on. From the wildest case at its wildest does not touch in wildness the Sunset. I was there several months ago and saw what my best girl was a tame, exciting. The jazziest symphonies ever heard I ever heard was there and about the best food I ever ate. But how they do carry on!

Shirts are getting longer on Fifth Avenue! Not enough to startle any one, but the smartly dressed women, at least, not showing their knickerbockers. The mannequins in the dress-making establishments, who are about the best dressed girls in town, are also wearing lengthened skirts at the luncheon hour. Straw hats have disappeared from the millinery shop windows. Velvet hats are now being shown, and one of the foremost of the milliners tells me that the hats are to be very large this winter.

I saw Arnold Rothstein, the man mentioned as being the main operator in the gambler's pool to throw the Chicago (Cucinatti) series, the other day. He is known as a Broadway gambler, but looks more like the middle-aged prosperous Wall Street broker. He has a shrewd, bright eye and his lips are set in a straight, grim line. He doesn't dress flashy and did not wear a single piece of jewelry. He was at the race-track when I saw him and a pair of blue-tars were thrown over his shoulder. He has a string of horses and in the old days used to be seen late at night around the old Metropole at Forty-third and Broadway. There is an old wheeze about the Metropole when it was the Cadillac. A rubberneck wagon passed down Broadway and a farmer stood up and shouted "There's the fellow that got my watch." Twenty-five dollars paid for cover.

Watermelon is native of Africa. Although scientific disagree on its early history, most authorities are of the opinion that the American watermelon began life in Africa way back before Columbus found us. And they further go on to say that it is highly probable that the fruit came over as a stowaway, perhaps only some native seeds, the only possession of some savage black man captured by slaves and chained down in the hold of a vessel for the voyage to the New World. The watermelon was a wild, untamed thing in its native land. Two hundred thousand acres of land are devoted to growing the fruit in this country, mostly in Texas, Georgia and Missouri. Next after the United States, Russia has been most addicted to devouring watermelons.
